

Champions for Christ-February- Obedience

Obedience is being respectful to rightful authority without hesitation or resistance listening and following directions without complaint, Act promptly when asked to do something,

K-2 (Two winners)

This person is a very good student, he always follows directions and if he is not sure about the direction he always asks one of us before moving on. This student knows our school/classroom rules and is always obedient. He also tries to help other students understand whatever it is that we are doing. This student is not only obedient, he is a very kind friend to all. This student is a kind and caring young man, who is very obedient and follows directions without a second thought. Nominated by Mrs. Sido and Ms. Tracy Congratulations to Kindergartener Layne Walton

This student shows his obedience to himself, his teachers and his peers. He always follows directions quickly and does it with great pleasure. He likes to stand in line with a quiet sign to show teachers and other students what to do. This student shows control over his actions during all our daily activities. Even when he finishes his work early, he finds something quiet to do in order to not disrupt his classmates. Nominated by Miss Locy Congratulations to First Grader Olan Stiles

3-5

This student is a Champion for Christ for her extraordinary daily practice as an obedient child of God. What makes her extraordinary, is that this teacher cannot think of one single time when this student has not been obedient! She works so hard to listen, follow directions, and do the right thing -- even when no one is watching. This student wants to be good, respectful and helpful and sets an excellent example for others. It's often easy to follow others who are not making the best decisions, but this student is a quiet leader who is not afraid to remain steadfast in making the right choices. She is the perfect example of an obedient Champion for Christ! Nominated by Mrs. Fischer
Congratulations to 4th Grader Violet Marks

This student is a good example of a student who shows the virtue of obedience. She listens to and follows directions for class work. She comes to class with an attitude of joy and willingness to learn. She is obedient to her inner voice and is helpful and kind to both this teacher and her fellow classmates. Sometimes her joyful exuberance bubbles over at a not quite appropriate time, but she is quick to get back on track with a gentle reminder. This willingness to start anew with a smile is of great importance, too. Nominated by Mrs. Hennessy
