

September 2025 Champion for Christ

Cardinal virtue of Justice focused on the related virtue of kindness.

K-2

Although this student is new to our school, her impact has already been felt by everyone who has contact with her. This student is the first person to comfort a classmate, whether it is a skinned knee on the playground, a stomach ache or hurt feelings. She even anticipates a need often before the other people know they need something. As an example, a classmate recently was not feeling well and had a sneezing fit. She quickly jumped up and grabbed a Kleenex for that student. Another student got a paper cut, as I applied a band aid she quickly came to comfort the student with a pat on the back and a quick hug. She has even helped office staff by opening the doors for them to enter the building. Her constant desire to help others in a time of need and to show compassion regardless of age or need shows her capacity of kindness. When I think of the word kindness and all that it implies, my entire class would unanimously use her name as a definition.

Congratulations to 2nd grader Luna Dillinger

3-5

This student has such a big, kind, heart! She seeks out ways to be kind to people. She notices when people are upset or bothered by something and she goes out of her way to check on them or to see if they need any help. One day she came to me and she said that she saw a staff member upset and crying near the bathroom and gave her a hug. Later, I saw her go check on how that staff member was doing and to give her another hug. She sees someone struggling, and she shows kindness and compassion. Another example is when she sees any of her classmates looking sad or sitting alone, she is the first one to go over and check on them. She loves to help clean our classroom. She will take the broom right out of my hand to sweep our floor for me. She always says "you work hard, let me do that!" This student is the definition of the word kind and I definitely believe that she deserves this award. She spreads kindness everywhere she goes.

This student shows kindness and respect to both her teachers and fellow students. She listens carefully to instructions without interrupting. She does her work quietly, being respectful and kind so that other students can complete their own. She uses the Cardinal virtue of Justice by being so conscientious of others and their need for order that all around her are able to do their best! This student exemplifies the Cardinal Virtue of Justice.
